Jail Three In Slot Machine Hi-Jack Quiz

Officers Question Trio In Burglary, Theft of Machine at Store.

Slot machine hi-jacking and evidence of the spread of slot machine operations from Mansfield into Richland county came to light today with the arrest of three men by city detectives and Sheriff Frank E. Robinson.

Two of the men were arrested by Sheriff Robinson and Detectives Lee J. Remy and Oscar Krupp in Ashland last night with the cooperation of authorities there. The third, a Mansfield colored man, said by officers to be the leader of the outfit, was arrested in Mansfield this morning.

The trio is being questioned concerning the theft of two slot machines from the Chet Nail Novelty company, 54 East Third street Wednesday night, and the "lifting" of a slot machine from the Pugh store, located outside of the city's corporation limits on the Olivesburg road.

First reports on the novelty company robbery said that four pinball machines had been stolen, but later investigation showed that actually two slot machines were missing.

The sheriff's office, under this and previous administrations, has claimed that no slot machines were permitted in territory under the sheriff's jurisdiction. The sheriff has no control over municipalities.

At the Pugh store, it was reported that a colored man had walked into the store, picked up a slot machine and walked out unmolested. Since the store is beyond the territory covered by police, they had no jurisdiction and no report. Neither was there a written report at the sheriff's office, where written reports are the rule rather than the exception.

Sheriff Robinson said he planned to make a check over the country to learn if slot machines are being displayed elsewhere. He said the colored man now in custody will be questioned.

Since slot machine operation is illegal under state law and city ordinances, the questions of own-

Fire Locks Men In Mine as 45 Make Escape.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—(AP)— From nine to 15 men were reported trapped today by fire which broke out in a mine motor at the Pursglove No. 15 operation about seven miles from Morgantown.

Sheriff Clarence E. Johnson reported about 60 men were at work in the section where the fire broke out but that "all but about nine or 15 miners" got out safely.

Pursglove No. 15 is only about a mile or two from the opening of the Pursglove No. 2 operation where 22 men were killed in an explosion last July. Rescue teams from Monongalia and Marion counties were rushed to the mine.

CHECK PLANTS ON BLACKOUTS

State Sends Civilian Defense Officials to City to Explain and Inspect.

Mansfield's industrial leaders and war plant protection officers will attend a luncheon Tuesday in the Westinghouse auditorium to hear Ralph H. Stone, Ohio's civilian defense director, and Major Charles Miller, liaison officer, will explain how factories must comply with blackout regulations.

Stone and Major Miller will later make an inspection of Mansfield plants to determine what efforts have been made to provide blackout facilities. Reports to Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense co-ordinator, of Mansfield industries have been lax in this regard.

Members of the Civilian Defense council and persons assigned to key posts in the city's war protection organization have been invited by Judge Kalbfleisch, to attend the luncheon.

At a meeting tonight zone wardens will be given questionnaires which, when completed by air wardens, will give a picture of the degree of training and the needs of the city's defense forces.

'Luxury' Items In Surplus Foods Distributed In City

Government - owned surplus commodities might well be termed "luxury" commodities, it appeared today, since many items distributed under the program are either unavailable in retail stores or are prohibitive in price.

Survey of the articles included this month in the distribution to schools sharing in the plan revealed such items as pork and beans, which are almost entirely unavailable in stores, and evaporated milk, cream cheese, prunes and dried beans, which are growing increasingly scare.

Other items such as butter and eggs, which were distributed last school year under the surplus commodities plan according to J. E. Finney, relief director, have been removed from the list of commodities available. He said, however, that he had advance information that tangerines which are an expensive item may be ordered for delivery next month. No fresh fruit other than apples were included in this month's supply.

Richland county shares in the state's plan for distributing the surplus foods to needy school children on the basis of the number of children certified in the program, Finney said. His office is advised between the 15th and 20th of each month as to what articles are available in the Akron warehouse. Nine schools of the county, as well as the NYA camp and Friendly House, which share in the plan, then make the selec-

Religious Leaders Meet on Church Census Plan Tonight

Plans for a city-wide religious census to be conducted in Mansfield prior to Easter as a spiritual movement in wartime will be outlined tonight at a meeting of ministers of all churches, religious leaders and laymen and an executive committee set up through the Mansfield Ministerial association to head the census.

Non-sectarian in scope the census will be conducted to determine the number of people affiliated with the organized faiths in the city, including Protestants, Catholic, Jewish or Greek, as well as the number of persons unaffiliated with any church. In the case of non-church members an attempt will be made to learn if they have a preference for any particular denomination so that churches of the city can be supplied with a list for contact after the census.

The meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters will be presided over by Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the First Congregational church, chairman of the census executive committee. Ralph Stanton has been appointed chairman of the survey proper.

Preliminary work in connection with the census began a year ago under the supervision of a planning committee headed by Gilmore R. Hiett. The executive committee in addition to the chairman, Rev. Young, includes the following members: Msgr. R. C. Goebel, Rev. C. L. Kern, Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, Rev. A. L. Linder, Rev. D. N. Roller, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, Conrad O. Diehm, Roger M. Gray, Gilmore R. Hiett, and Myron D. Miller.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The navy reported today that army air forces had again bombed Japanese bases at Kiska, in the Aleutian islands, and Munda, in the Solomons, but that no results were reported.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Allied planes battered furiously at the remnants of a 10-ship Japanese convoy off the New Guinea coast today in the violent climax to a 24-hour running battle in which they were reported officially to have sunk two big transports, one heavily loaded with troops, damaged a third and shot down 18 fighters.

The attacks on the convoy, apparently engaged in an attempt to land reinforcements in northeastern New Guinea, were disclosed in an Allied communique which also announced virtual completion of the Papuan campaign and the annihilation of a Japanese army that once totaled approximately 15,000 men.

To these successes the bulletin added the announcement that 107 enemy warships and merchant vessels were destroyed or severely damaged by General MacArthur's airmen since July 23—two days after the Japanese first landed at Buna.

The toll which the Japanese have paid in their desperate efforts to retain a foothold in New Guinea was emphasized by the disclosure that one of the two enemy transports just reported sunk had gone down heavily

With the disappearance of 35 gasoline ration books issued for Richland county cars reported, Chief Ration Clerk Nelson Neff today warned gas station operators to be on the lookout for the coupons and to check carefully to see that coupon numbers corresponded with licenses of cars for which they were issued.

Owners of some books told ration officials they were certain their coupons had been stolen, while others said the books may have been lost.

New books may be procured from the gasoline panel after a detailed report and affidavit have been filed, although the board can withhold issuance for as long as 60 days, Neff said.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—A French and American camel corps, attacking against heavy odds, has captured Tanout Maller, 14 miles from Tarat on the Tripolitanian border, killing 250 Italians, a French military spokesman declared.

This was the first Reported Allied operation in the vast area of southeastern Algeria known as the "territory of the "oases," opposite the Fezzan desert of Southwestern Libya where another French force is driving north from the Lake Chad region.)

This action was the only reported land operation on the front as bad weather closed in again on the northern sector.

There was limited air activity. United States air forces attacked the Germans at Kairouan, 35 miles southwest of Sousse, and at the Fort of Gabes. The RAF's Bixleys started two large fires in a new attack on the Tunis docks.

WPB Sets Up Regional Office To Aid City's Manufacturers

Mansfield's industrial conversion from domestic to wartime production last year was recognized by the War Production Board today with the establishment here of a priority representative to aid manufacturers and business men with their problems in the Richland, Ashland and Cawford county area, according to an announcement from the Chamber of Commerce.

Clyde Moran, Mansfield Westinghouse sales representative for 13 years until joining the War Production Board early last year, has been appointetd priority representative for this area. Moran arrived in Mansfield today to confer with John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and prepare to take up his post in the chamber rooms Friday and Saturday each week.

The placement of a priority representative here was brought about largely through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, Moran said, since steps toward that end were taken by Routzon as long as four months ago. Moran comes here from the Cleveland office of WPB after first being located in Cincinnati, and later Columbus where he established that branch of WPB. The Moran home has been maintained here since 1929 and is located at 536 Chevy Chase road.

Moran said he expected to spend just as much time in Mansfield as the manufacturers required and that if two days a week were insufficient to handle matters he would remain here longer.

LONDON—(U.P.)— Britain lost one destroyer and had a second damaged in a blazing sea battle off the northern tip of Norway in which a German pocket battleship was believed to have been involved, the admiralty announced today.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — Smashing through the wall of German resistance across the lower Don with tank attacks and planes, the Russians reported today their forces had driven farther to within 65 miles of Rostov, whose fall would trap the Nazis in the Caucasus.

That represented a gain of ten miles since the Red army vanguard reached Bolshaya Orlovka, on the Sal river, yesterday.

Battlefront dispatches declared the Germans were fighting desperately in an effort to keep open a corridor into the Caucasus, but that the Red army was battering its way steadily through hastily massed tanks and forces of motorized infantry.

The leading edge of the Russian offensive down the Don passed Strakhov, west of Bolshaya Orlovka and 65 miles east of Rostov, dispatches said. Two villages on the northern bank of the Sal river between Bolshaya Orlovka and Strakhov also were reported taken.

PARKING METER RECEIPTS DROP

December Revenue Amounts To $3,194 as Curb on Driving Hits Harder.

City parking meter receipts in December dropped to $3,194.94 despite the Christmas buying rush, according to reports certified today to City Auditor Paul L. Kelley.

Meter receipts dwindled along with a restricted gasoline supply, authorities say, since rationing of motor fuel began Dec. 1. Buses serving city sectors accommodated record numbers of riders during the holiday season.

November receipts totaled $3,441.25 which also showed a slight decline from the October reports.

Meanwhile, Traffic Commissioner Fred C. Boals, is making an intensive study of current traffic trends to determine whether or not meters will be covered for the duration of the war in some sections of the business district.

There is little likelihood, Boals said today, that any traffic lights will be blacked out inasmuch as several experiments in covering vehicle signals immediately stepped up the accident and injury toll.

December's meter collections included $1,595.28 in pennies, $1,587.35 in nickles, $12.30 in dimes according to the report of Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, meter inspector and collector.

COURT REJECTS HIGHWAY SUIT

Denies Injunction Against Lombardo Company on Road Contract.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Clifford refused yesterday to enjoin State Highway Director Hal G. Sours from proceeding with a contract with the Lombardo Bros. Construction company of Cleveland for improvement of the Cleveland-Massillon highway.

Sam A. Horvitz of Cleveland sued last spring to prevent fulfillment of the $1,344,680 contract on grounds it would require materials vital to the war and that it was not an important military road. During hearings on the case last summer he charged further there was collusion between Sours and the Lombardo company before the contract was awarded.

Judge Clifford said in his opinion that "even if under the fact as shown it should be held that there were irregularities, still no equity, no loss to any taxpayer, no harmful result to the state or to anyone has been shown."

The opinion went on:

"It clearly has not been shown that any material injury or any injury whatsoever, will occur to any Ohio taxpayer by reason of the completion of the performance of the contract here in question.

"Furthermore, the evidence fails to show that there is not a substantial compliance with the statutes relative to the pre-qualification of the contractor and the sub-contractor, prevailing rights of wages and the sub-letting of the contract, or that there was an abuse of discretion on the part of the defendant, Hal G. Sours."

"The Authority on Authorities"

FEAR FOR YOUR ACES

AGGRESSIVE bidding of one or two suits by an opponent should always warn you against overvaluing the defensive value of your high cards. You should even have a certain amount of fear for your aces in such circumstances. One or more of them is in danger of being ruffed because of a void suit. No statistics have ever been compiled to show what percentage of unsuccessful business doubles are due to this factor, but it is undoubtedly large.

North: ♠ 8 6 4 2 ♥ 4 ♦ K Q 7 5 ♣ J 7 5 4
West: ♠ Q J 7 5 ♥ J 5 2 ♦ 9 8 4 3 2 ♣ 6
East: ♠ A 10 9 3 ♥ A Q 10 ♦ A J 10 6 ♣ 10 3
South: ♠ K ♥ K 9 8 7 6 3 ♦ None ♣ A K Q 9 8 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	Dbl
3 ♣	3 ♠	4 ♣	4 ♠
5 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl

East was sorry about the whole thing after South made his contract, losing tricks to only two of East's three aces. He had no apologies to offer, however, but merely figuratively kicked himself on the shins, confessing that he should have known better when South bid as he did.

The key to the situation was really South's second bid, 3-Clubs. That showed two things pronouncedly. One of them was that his hand was splendid if played on the offensive, at one of his two suits. The other was that he was not overly strong in high card values outside of his own suits, or otherwise he would have redoubled over East's double, or else might have passed first to see what would develop. There could not have been any earthy reason for such a jump bid over a double except extreme length in his own suits, with pretty fair solidity in secondary honors, and extreme shortage in the other suits.

Disregard of those obvious inferences caused East to hand his opponents some extra points by means of his dangerous double.

Tomorrow's Problem.

North: ♠ A Q 10 2 ♥ K 4 ♦ K Q 7 6 ♣ J 9 3
West: ♠ 9 ♥ A 8 7 6 3 ♦ A 10 9 8 5 ♣ 4 2

South: ♠ 7 5 3 ♥ Q J 10 2 ♦ J 4 ♣ A 8 7 5

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

How should South play this hand for 3-No Trumps after the diamond 10 is made as a bad lead after East's double, West having opened the bidding with a shaded 1-Heart?

Those whose birthday it is may be given an opportunity to show their cleverness, acumen and diversified ability and talents in thwarting strange and unlooked for obstacles, enmities or malicious opposition and winning the favoritism and cooperation of those in power. No. 5

CREDIT FOR DEPENDENTS

A taxpayer is entitled to a credit for each person other than husband or wife, whether related to him or not, and whether living with him or not, who during the taxable year was dependent upon and received his chief support from the taxpayer, provided the dependent was either (a) under 18 years of age, or (b) incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The credit for dependents is based upon actual financial dependency and not mere legal dependency. It is not necessary that the dependent be related to the taxpayer, but the taxpayer must have provided more than one-half of the support, or there is no dependency.

The term "mentally or physically defective" includes not only those who are mentally afflicted and physically crippled, but also persons who, by reason of old age or impaired health, are incapable of self-support. The state of mental or physical defect need not be of a permanent nature, but if it existed for only a portion of the year, then the credit for dependent can be claimed only for that portion of the year during which the dependent was supported by the taxpayer.

A person may not acquire a credit for dependents by reason of support of a person qualifying as a dependent if, as a result of such support, he acquires a head of family exemption, but may acquire a credit for dependents by reason of additional persons qualifying as dependents, whom he supports. Thus, if a person claims head of family exemption on account of support of an aged mother or father, incapable of self-support, or a child, he would not be entitled to a credit for such dependent; but if he supported more than one such person he could claim credit for such additional persons provided they were under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support.

Credit for dependents may not be divided between two persons filing separate returns, but must be taken by the one contributing the chief support. A credit for dependents may be claimed by a father who provides the support for his children living with his divorced wife, if the support is provided as the result of a court decree or as the result of an agreement between husband and wife.

The credit for a dependent, allowable to a taxpayer filing on Form 1040, is $350, and is proportionate with the number of months of dependency. Thus, for a child born on July 1, the credit allowable would be $175 (for six months), and if a child became 18 years of age on July 1, the credit allowable would be $175. One-half a month or less is not counted as a month; more than one-half a month is counted as a month in calculating the credit.

A credit of $385 for each dependent on July 1 of the year is allowable to a taxpayer using Simplified Form 1040A.

PUZZLE

City Wants To Buy Garbage Cans on Slim Market.

Advertisements placed today by Service Director Fred B. Wolff reflects the optimism of Lester Linham, garbage collection and disposal superintendent, who wants the city to buy 600 new garbage cans and 300 lids or covers as one of the 1943 needs of the department.

"Where, oh where, can we get metal cans" Director Wolff asked today as he blinked at the requisition and skipped along to the part which seeks 6,000 tons of coal for the disposal plant, one of the few essentials still easy to get if, like the city, you got the cash.

Superintendent O. C. Kalbfleisch of the waterworks department today asked for bids for supplying 6,000 pounds of liquid chlorine for the city's water supply

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By
Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XXX

Three days later, Dina's letter came. It had not been written on the plane after all, but it came by air mail.

But the instant her eyes met the opening phrase she knew it was not to be peace. Dina followed the few lines, stunned, crushed the letter spasmodically in her hand. She pressed her free hand to her heart as if it were in physical pain. Presently, swallowing with a dry throat, she said aloud, "Oh, no, no!"

"Dear Dina," it began. "I did not understand what you were trying to tell me, but I know now what it was. You asked if it would 'make a difference,' my dear. Of course it does. I'm sorry, but it does! I can't help it; it does! It means that for a long time we may not see each other again and the little farmhouse in Connecticut gets a key turned in its doors forever. Forgive me for hoping it might have been different."

No day passed without a reminder from Aline that she expected soon to be mistress of the old house. She brought Caroline to lunch, and they completely ignored Dina as they walked about appraising the old Chinese cabinets and discussing the history of the rugs.

Aline asked Mrs. Bucket how many of the old crystal goblets were left, who was Mr. Holland's butcher? One day Dina found her and Caroline at the linen closet, Mrs. Bucket standing in sulphurous silence near them while they admired the heavy old sheets and old-fashioned banquet cloths.

"I think we will see how we get along without our dear old housekeeper," Aline muttered airily to Caroline when Mrs. Bucket had gone. But with Rogers she was always gentle and hesitant. "Let's not change anything, Toppy. I love the darling old place just as it is! We used to have some of our happiest times here, and I want everything to be just the way it was," Aline would say.

On a certain day when Rogers was away, however, Aline came to the house with a keen, handsome young architect she introduced as Sanford Smith, who she explained was going to do some old-fashioned rooms for a museum and would love to see the Holland place.

"Rogers is not here, you know," Dina reminded her.

"I forgot! But I spoke to him about it and he said Mr. Smith could go anywhere he liked," Aline said quickly.

"Oh, that's all right then." While Aline took the newcomer through the downstairs rooms Dina went up to explain to Mrs. Bucket.

"So that's the way it's going to be, is it?" the housekeeper said. "She'll not leave one thing the way it is, and when she's got it all torn up then she'll decide she can't stand it anyway, and they'll take a place in town."

Aline and her escort finally went downstairs, Dina remained in her own room, unable any longer to act the part of agreeable guide. She went to the window and stood there, looking down at the gardens and the drive.

While she watched, Aline and Sanford Smith came out to the man's cream-colored, one-seated open car, parked down by the entrance. He went around it to open the door for his companion, who got in with some little flourish of settling and getting comfortable. When he was in his seat they put their arms about each other for a long kiss, and his arm was still encircling her as they drove away.

Dina stood immovable for a long time. No use to tell Rogers this either; it would merely sound catty and feminine. But it deepened the cloud that hung so darkly over her in these days.

It had been upon this mood of doubt and uneasiness that Andy's letter had fallen with shattering force. Her friend, the stronghold of all her thoughts in these last weeks, was gone now, and she and Margaret would have to face the world alone.

Dina knew from hints that Rogers had dropped almost unconsciously, that he felt sure that she and Vere would presently straighten out the whole affair by a quiet marriage.

Vere had a job. He was working as a clerk in the office of a San Francisco attorney who was a friend of his father and at the same time was being coached for the bar examinations.

But on Saturday and Sunday he was free, and on other days he might drop in late for a drink and a game with his uncle before dinner or stay for dinner and make a fourth at bridge afterward.

It was late in January. She was with Rogers in the library just before dinner when he suddenly said to her:

"Look here, I want to talk to you, and I don't know that I'll ever find a better time! Sit down over there," he added, taking his own fireside chair.

"You know, I suppose, that Aline has gone to Reno? She gets her divorce the first of March.

"The thing is what are the chances of your patching things up with Vere? I know he is more in love with you than ever.

"If—if he had stood by me last year, there wouldn't have been anything to prevent it," Dina said in a not quiet voice.

"Well, too late for that now," Rogers murmured, frowning in faint disapproval.

"I am not the same girl," she began quietly. "Never the same girl again! I killed that girl who danced and worked in Meyer's and cooked dinners and thought that if ever she married it would be someone who thought she was the most wonderful person in the world! I killed her," Dina repeated feverishly.

"I'm not going to marry anyone, not for years. I'm going back to my mother. I've got to think it all out! I've got to be by myself with Margaret!"

"I see how you feel," Rogers said mildly after the long moment of silence that followed. "I'll not try to stop you, my dear."

Little Lou Cashman, feverish and weak, opened her eyes at twilight to find a dream come true. Here was Dina back again with an apron over her cotton dress and a tray in her hands.

"Oh, Deen, Deen, did you come?" Lou faltered, wide awake.

"I did, and I brought Margaret, and Mama's giving Margaret her supper in the kitchen, and you've got to eat yours!" Dina answered.

"And are you going to stay all night, Deen?"

"She's going to stay," Myrna said from the doorway. "Her husband's going on a trip, and she's going to stay weeks, aren't you, Dina?"

The door closed on the others. She was alone with Lou. She sat steadily feeding the invalid, and Lou looked at her with eyes that could never drink their fill of the adored face. And deep in Dina's heart there was at last a certitude, a something like content.

After infinite discussion it had been arranged that the Cashman family should go to the lake for a six weeks' holiday.

Dina and the baby would remain behind to keep house for Art, and, after his vacation, for her father; but after four weeks her mother would return, and then Dina and Art would drive up to join the younger girls at the lake for two weeks more.

"We don't want anything; we're just going away for the summer. Myrna said to the tall stranger who had walked in through the open front door and now stood smiling at the entrance to the dining room. They all looked up. Dina's heart leaped.

"I'm not selling anything at the moment, except myself," Andrew Havens said. He came over to Dina, and she held his hand while she introduced him, stammering and laughing. The bigness, the dearness of him overwhelmed her; just the sound of his voice and the look of that crooked smile were enough to set all the bells in the world ringing. Andy was back in her life again!

"This disgusting table!" she apologized, laughing. As if anything mattered now! Her mother had already made a place for him.

"The family is just off for the lake," Dina explained, "and they were so late in starting that we got some sort of lunch together."

The burning sun beat down; the four doors slammed in quick succession. The engine started; gears jerked. They were off.

"Well, that's that!" Dina panted then, turning to Andy with a smile. She wore faded cotton Chinese coolie clothes, her hair was tumbled, her face pale from the heat, but Andy's first remark, made under his breath, was: "My God, you are lovely!"

"Sit down a minute Andy," Dina said, sitting down herself on the shady top step. "If you could know what's been going on in this house since five this morning!" Dina added laughing. Her hand was again safe where she had so often hungered to have it, in the grip of his own big hand.

"Tell me about yourself! You can see how it is with me. What brings you here?"

"You."

"Nothing, else?"

"I came back here because I can't live without you, Dina."

You'll like this England that Coward reveals on the screen, and I imagine England will like this Coward better than, for a while, it did.

You'll remember that Coward went home at war's outbreak and offered his services. They sent him on a mission of propaganda, and among other mistakes Coward made the very unhappy one of attending a British war relief benefit in Hollywood.

He was photographed amid the merriment, a champagne glass bubbling before him. The blitzed Londoners didn't like it. Besides, he had flopped as a propagandizer, knowing nothing of the trade.

That was when Noel Coward decided he had better stick to his last, and do a job for England that he knew how to do. That was when the man who flopped at propaganda turned out this masterpiece of national friend-making and people-influencing.

WPB Orders New Cut In Use Of Paper

ASKS PRIORITY GO-AHEAD FOR RUBBER PLANTS

Jeffers Hits Building Delay, Warns of 'Disaster' To Transport System.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said today the synthetic rubber program needs a clear priority go-ahead on at least 65 to 70 per cent of its plant construction to avoid a "disaster" in military and industrial transport.

Right now the delayed program is in such precarious balance, he said, that "a few bad breaks would spell catastrophe."

Nevertheless, Jeffers said in an interview he did not believe the new east coast ban on pleasure driving—ncessitated by the petroleum shortage—should now be extended to the rest of the country to save tires.

While asserting this opinion might have to be revised next summer "when people start driving to the ball parks and beaches and places," the rubber chief said he thought people generally would "cooperate without coercion" in keeping tire wear to a minimum.

If possible, he said, he would like to preserve such freedom of movement as is now permitted under mileage rationing, in areas where the petroleum supply makes this feasible.

If 65 to 70 per cent of the synthetic plant program were given unhampered preference in the competition for equipment and materials, the program still could hit a production rate in 1944 of 600,000 tons, Jeffers said.

This would suffice to keep the military machines of this country and the United Nations rolling, as well as essential trucks and buses, he observed. But it doesn't leave any for the rank and file of motorists.

Twenty per cent of the program already has been granted a "special direction" by the war production board to guarantee speedy completion. The rest is snarled in conflict for materials and equipment with the high-octane aviation gasoline program and, to a lesser degree, with the escort ship construction program and with aircraft.

HORSES ESCAPE

7 Uninjured When Truck Goes Into Ditch Near Crestline.

Seven draft horses escaped death or injury last night when a large truck in which they were being transported turned over after being forced off state highway 30-N, two miles east of Crestline.

Lloyd Lewton, of Columbus, driver of the truck told sheriff's officers that a motorist who took more than his half of the road forced the truck onto the berm from which it slid into the ditch. The motorist failed to stop.

Lewton said the truck was the property of James Entsminger and that they were taking the load of horses from a farm near Bucyrus to Pennsylvania. The horses were quartered at a nearby farm until the truck was righted onto the highway ready to resume the trip eastward.

Expectant Mother, Lana Turner Asks For Annulment

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Lana Turner, 23, honey-haired "sweater girl" of the screen, today asked annulment of her six-month marriage to Stephen Crane, 26, wealthy tobacco broker.

The complaint, filed exactly one month after she disclosed she is an expectant mother, alleged that when she married Crane his divorce from his former wife was not final.

Filing the suit under her legal name—Julia Jean Crane—the screen siren asked for custody of her child, when born, and for "further proper relief."

Crane explained that when he eloped to Las Vegas last July with the actress he thought his divorce from the former Carol Kurtz of Indianapolis was final.

Miss Turner formerly was the mate of Band Leader Artie Shaw. That marriage, lasting five months, was performed by the same justice of peace who joined her to Crane.

PLAN VICTORY BOOK CAMPAIGN

Library, Red Cross and USO To Handle Drive Opening During January.

Preparations were underway today to launch the second annual Victory Book campaign in Mansfield and Richland county through the joint auspices of the Mansfield Public library, the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross and the United Service Organization.

Although the national campaign was slated to open Jan. 5, the Richland county campaign will not get under way until the middle or latter part of January due to the Book Fair during the week of Jan. 10-17.

Miss Lois MacKellar, city librarian, who headed the county campaign last year, was again authorized by John M. Connor, director of the national Victory Book campaign organization, to set up the steering machine for the drive in the county. She indicated that the same persons who functioned on committees this year would be asked to work on the drive this year.

While definite plans for the drive have not been made, Miss MacKellar said that no house-to-house canvass would be made due to tire and gasoline rationing and that libraries throughout the county would undoubtedly be designated as receiving stations.

Emphasis will be placed this year on the donation of only really good books and not books discarded and relegated to the attic. Suggestions for contributions will be posted by the library later.

WLB DENIES PAY HIKE

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The regional war labor board, under a policy opposed to increasing wages above the level of last Sept. 15, except in cases of inequalities, disapproved a proposed voluntary 5-cent an hour raise for 98 workers at the Denman Tire and Rubber company of Warren.

RICHLAND FARMERS HAVE HUGE JOB AHEAD, AAA CHAIRMAN SAYS

Richland county farmers have a huge task before them this year to produce more food for the war program and they will need the help of both city and farm interests to achieve the goal, Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the county war board, told a group representing farm organizations and the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon at the courthouse.

Represented at the session, called by Taylor, were the Grange, Farm Bureau, Farm Security administration, extension service, Chamber of Commerce, milk producers, and livestock breeders. About 35 attended.

Taylor said inventory sheets will be available soon for farmers who will be asked to fill them out and return them to war board headquarters in Mansfield.

The blanks will list questions pertaining to farm labor and machinery needs for the year. Farmers will be asked to list any unused or obsolete machinery they possess so attempts can be made to place it in use again.

Taylor, who also is chairman of the county AAA committee, outlined Ohio production goals for the year which call for more cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, milk, eggs, potatoes, corn, and barley.

About the only crops that will be held down are wheat, rye, and soybeans. There is a surplus of them.

The county war chairman said townships will hold Mobilization Day meetings next Tuesday to mark the opening of the biggest food production program in the state's history. Formulation of plans for the programs is under way.

Up and Down THE STREET

State highway department workers Wednesday engaged in an extemporaneous junk collection on State Route 39 between Mansfield and Lucas. Scrap metal had been strewn along the road in falling off a truck belonging to a Shelby concern and driven by Charles Patton, Shelby R. D. 1. According to state employes, who salvaged around 500 pounds of scrap while pursuing the truck, the load was not properly battened down, the truck had no tailgate and a gaping hole in the truck bed permitted shifting steel to drain out. Patton, arrested by Patrolman William Taylor, today was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch on the charge of insecurely fastening a truck cargo.

Girl Scout troop 6 of John Simpson high school was happy today that it had been able to supply an army service men's club with a subscription to a nationally-read magazine after becoming involved in an endless chain of correspondence to accomplish it. The troop wrote to the magazine to learn the name of a club not already on the subscription list. Then the Scouts learned that to obtain special rates it would be necessary to send the publication directly to an individual. Word finally came through today that an airman in Texas would receive the gift and that he had faithfully promised to see that it reached his nearest USO club.

Moral—be sure to remove the paint your car scraped off the one you hit if you want to elude the police traffic department in its relentless war on hit-and-run motorists. Yesterday Milo Bridges, 815 Springmill street, pleaded guilty in municipal court of leaving the scene of an accident, telling police and Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch he "didn't think it was necessary to stop" after his car collided with one parked on North Bowman street, several days ago. Patrolman Roeliff Hout, taking paint samples from the damaged car, matched them up with smears found on the Bridges car parked in a factory lot. Bridges was fined $25 and costs and his driving rights revoked for one year.

RITES SECRET

Widow Withholds Time, Place of Crile Funeral.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Private funeral services are to be held for Dr. George Crile, famed 78-year-old surgeon-scientist, who died yesterday in Cleveland clinic which he co-founded, it was announced today. At the request of the widow the time and place of the services were not to be made public.

Dr. Charles Hartsock, attending physician, said death was caused by sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, a growth of germs which blocked the heart valves. Dr. Hartsock also revealed that Dr. Crile had received approximately 10 blood transfusions, an operation which Dr. Crile pioneered in.

Dr. Crile was seriously injured returning from a research trip, along with Mrs. Crile, two years ago when an airliner crashed in a Florida swamp.

PACKAGING OF FOOD, CLOTHES HIT BY RULING

Estimate 225,000 Tons of Paperboard Will Be Saved This Year.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Fresh curtailment of the use of paper in commercial printing, manufacture of converted paper products and the packaging of food, wearing apparel, gifts and other merchandise was ordered today by the war production board.

Simultaneously, because of labor shortages and an expected decline in domestic production of wood pulp for paper, WPB revised its method of controlling paper output to permit expanded production of grades containing waste of non-fibrous material pending a balancing reduction in other grades.

Two earlier directives cut the use of paper by newspapers and magazines about 10 per cent.

One order, effective immediately, called for elimination of dummy boxes; a 35 per cent reduction in production of paperboard boxes used by retailers for packaging merchandise; elimination of boxes for packaging alcoholic beverages, and restrictions in the quality of paperboard used in gift boxes.

Approximately 225,000 tons of paperboard will be saved this year, or 10 per cent of the amount used in 1942, WPB estimated, and will permit paper packaging of other products formerly packed in tin.

A second order limited converters use of paper as much as 50 per cent of the amount used in 1942 on decorative items such as glazed and coated papers; 75 per cent on photo mounts and chair seat covers, and 90 per cent on paper dishes, plates, spoons, envelopes, facial tissues, napkins, envelopes, stationery, notebooks and kindred items.

Beginning Feb. 15, manufacturers of articles from plup, paper and paperboard will be prohibited from producing laundry specialties such as collar circles and shirt boards; novelties such as serpentines, hats and confetti; doilies, shelf and drawer linings, bakers decorative specialties, and scores of similar products.

Commercial printers during 1943 were forbidden to use more than 90 per cent of the paper used in 1941. Exempted from the order, however, is the printing of newspapers, magazines, books, wall paper, boxes, converted paper products and printed matter for any federal or local government agency.

If You Can't Get Beef, Try 'Marsh Hare,' Says Rider

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Take it from an old "marsh hare" eater, there's nothing tastier.

H. A. (Buck) Rider, assistant Ohio conservation commissioner, asserted today Ohionans who might object to horse steaks should beef become unobtainable, would find muskrat, or "marsh hare," a treat.

The general public has missed the treat because of the muskrat's name," he said. "It's a rodent, but so is the rabbit. The muskrat is a vegetarian and one of the cleanest of animals."

Ohio's muskrat population was estimated at about 2,000,000 by Dr Lawrence E. Hicks, director of Ohio State university's wild life research station. He estimated trappers take approximately 1,000,000 muskrats yearly.

The trapping season runs from Nov. 20 to Jan. 15, except in the Lake Erie district, where it ends March 15. Shooting of muskrats is not prohibited by law but the conservation commission discourages hunting because of damage to pelts.

Freddie Wolpert, the old Mansfield Brave, has his name in the Sporting News this week in the latest official list of 200 ball players and three umpires going into armed service.

The official news must be very old indeed. Freddie is listed as coming from Charleston of the Mid-Atlantic league. But Wolpert, assigned to Charleston by the Cleveland Indians after his purchase from the Braves at the close of the 1941 season, never played with Charleston. So he must have been in service a long time.

On the official service list along with Wolpert, is George Sprys, also from Charleston, and formerly with Fremont in the Ohio State league.

From Wee Willie Reinka, champion letter writer of the old Braves, comes the word that Bob (Tee) TeStruth is in Australia, while Harry Siegbert is on a "lonely island" in the Southwest Pacific.

Lonely island? I had the idea those places weren't so lonely any more. It may not be Fourth and Main street, but I bet Siegbert isn't too lonely on that isle.

Reinka believes a lot of Mansfield fans would like to correspond with the old Braves now in service, and sends along a few addresses for their use. I have been surprised lately at the number of fans who have been writing to the former Braves, and these addresses should come in handy.

Horses Stay, But Tracks Close Down

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Whirlaway and lesser known horses still made the rounds of Miami's two race tracks today but the thoroughbreds were strictly in the non-profit ledger as the ban on automobile pleasure driving cut short the Florida racing season.

Officials of Hialeah and Tropical parks reported stables would be kept open and racing strips in condition so that some 1,500 horses might be kept in top shape, pending decisions by owners as to the future. Track officials have not closed the door to a resumed season.

Hirsch Jacobs, a leading trainer, sounded the keynote for trainers and owners by saying:

"I think 90 per cent of the horses will stay right here for the winter. It would be dangerous to ship them from a warm climate to a cold climate now. My string of 25 is staying here, as far as I can tell right now."

Seasonal employes at both tracks were paid off as were a number of state racing commission men. Jockeys packed up their silks.

Two greyhound tracks suspended operations last night. A third, the Hollywood Kennel club, cancelled its season when the driving ban in eastern seaboard states was first announced.

Illini Favored For Title

Big Ten Teams Open With Full Card Friday.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(UP)—Illinois to repeat as the champion with Wisconsin and Indiana as the chief title contenders. That's the consensus rating of Big Ten teams as they prepare to open the conference schedule tomorrow night with a full five-game program.

The opening card pits Michigan against Illinois in the headline contest at Champaign. In other games Wisconsin meets Northwestern at Chicago, Ohio State opposes Indiana at Bloomington, Minnesota engages Iowa at Iowa City and Chicago faces Purdue at Lafayette.

Illinois took the Big Ten title last season by a margin of three full games and Coach Doug Mills has the same combination back. It appears highly improbable that any rival has improved sufficiently to topple the Illini from the peak.

In early season non-conference games Illinois won five and lost one. The triumphs were over Detroit, Nebraska, Missouri and Great Lakes, while the loss was to Camp Grant.

The defending champions are a heavy favorite over Michigan even though they may not have the services of Ken Menke, brilliant forward. Menke suffered a foot injury in practice Tuesday.

Michigan is one of the two teams to finish the pre-conference schedule without a loss, but hardly figures to extend the Illini. Michigan's mark of five straight victories, however, indicates improvement over the team that finished in a seventh place tie a year ago.

Wisconsin was off to a poor start in conference play last season and lost its first three league games. The Badgers then settled down to win 10 of their next 12 battles, but couldn't ever make up the ground lost at the outset of the campaign. In winning six out of seven starts to-date Coach Bud Foster's combination has looked "slump proof."

With Johnny Kotz, who set a new all-time Big Ten record with 242 points a year ago, as its key-man Wisconsin is a title threat not to be underestimated.

Indiana showed unexpected form in sweeping seven straight "warm up" contests. The Hoosiers are the choice over Ohio State although Ralph Hamilton, their leading scorer, may not play because of a back injury received in the Butler game Monday night.

Purdue has the easiest opening night assignment with Chicago. The Maroons go into the game with a record of having lost 31 consecutive Big Ten games and it would be an upset if the streak ends now.

Purdue's chances of figuring prominently in the race decreased when Myrwin Anderson, a starting forward, left the squad yesterday to report as a naval aviation cadet.

Minnesota rates the slight edge over Iowa.

Bee Gee Quint Sets Hot Pace

Freshman Gray Boosts Scoring Total To 226.

BOWLING GREEN (AP)—Bowling Green's basketeers are scorching along under a full head of steam at better than a point and a half-a-minute clip.

The Bee-Gees whipped Findlay 78 to 33 last night for their ninth straight victory without loss this season. They led 36-18 at halftime.

The state's leading scorer, Wyndol Gray, had a field day. The flashy freshman forward from Akron sank 13 fielders and four free throws for 30 points to run his season's total to 226.

Bowling Green journeys to Ohio Northern for a game Saturday and plays a return engagement at Findlay next Tuesday.

In the only other Ohio college contest last night, Mt. Union trounced Youngstown 70 to 37 at Alliance. Center Leo Mogus of Youngstown took individual scoring honors with 20 points.

Tygers Face Lima Dragons

Central Won Four Games, Lost To Springfield.

Fresh from a 25-24 victory over a previously undefeated Akron West team, Mansfield high's Tygers are ready to take on Lima Central's Dragons in Senior high gym tomorrow night.

Pleased with the showing they made against West, Coach Vern Hoffman will start the same five boys against Central.

Lamaroux and Baker will be at the forwards, Lewis at center, and Les Meyer and McBride at the guards.

After watching his team conclude a two hour practice session yesterday afternoon, Coach Hoffman said he was pleased with the improvement they have shown after losing the first three games of the season.

However, Hoffman wouldn't make a prediction on tonight's game except to say that "it should be a tough ball game."

Little is known about the strength of the visiting team since mileage rationing has stopped scouting activities.

On paper the Central five looks good, having won their first four games before losing to Springfield last Friday night.

They play at Martins Ferry tonight and are scheduled to arrive in town about 4 a. m. tomorrow. This may be a break for the Tygers, taking into consideration the fact that an all-night automobile trip, following the Martins Ferry game, could leave the Dragons a bit on the "sleepy side."

In the preliminary contest, the Mansfield sophomores meet Johnny Appleseed's varsity. This game is scheduled to get underway at 7:30.

Mentor Admits Cooking Hobby

CLINTON, S. C.—(UP)—When Coach Lonnie McMillian athletic director at Presbyterian college, isn't concocting intricate football strategy to fool Blue Stocking grid opposition, it's an odds-on bet that you'll find him tucked away in Mrs. McMillian's kitchen behind a flowing apron. You see, cooking is the silent mentor's hobby, and he really boils in the dividends with it.

* * *

Mrs. McMillian says that if you won't believe he was well worth marrying, here are just a few of the dishes he "whips up" for an evening meal: Chinese rice, roast duck, roast turkey, spaghetti, fish stew, barbecue and roast goose.

The veteran athletic instructor, who takes the cigar from his mouth only when pursuing his hobby, just "picked-up" his nourishing art—for the most part, on hunting and fishing trips. He has recipes but never measures the ingredients.

"Can't follow a recipe," McMillian explained. "Things just don't taste right when I do."

Fears Players Face Penalty

Job Pegging Hits at Indians In Industry.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians, who urged Tribesmen to get into war work at the close of the past baseball season, hoped today his advice would not backfire.

At least six players—Mel Harder, Jim Bagby, Hary Eisenstat, Al Milnar, Hank Edwards and Oris Hockett—followed his advice.

Now, under a new labor stabilization plan "pegging" Cleveland war workers in their present jobs, there's some question whether the players will be released from industry to return to baseball next season.

The program, set up by the local labor-management committee of the war manpower commission to relieve a labor scarcity in the Cleveland area, prohibits the transfer of workers from essential jobs except "statements of availability." Such statements may be obtained from employers or the U. S. Employment Service if a change in jobs is deemed in the best interests of the war effort.

The WMC admits success of the program depends upon its voluntary acceptance by employers and employes, but expects them to comply. Some WMC officials, admitting the player program had not been foreseen, expressed the opinion Tribesmen in war jobs would be affected by the program.

Bradley said he was confident the WMC would not challenge the right of a player to return to his real job—baseball.

"To peg them in those jobs would be to penalize them for doing what they and I thought was right," the Indians' president added. "The fellow who would get the break would be the one who ignored my advice and spent the winter hunting and fishing."

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Umpire Bill Stewart, who was the first pro baseball player to enlist in the other war, has come around to the conclusion that sports still are useful so the home folks can "let off steam and get things off their chest." . . . Although plans still are nebulous, Ned Irish has reserved March 27, three days after the end of the invitation basketball tournament, as the date for a war charities court game. . . . If the Dodgers train in Yale's Coxe Memorial field house, do you suppose "Dem Bums" will become "Coxe's army"?

QUOTE, UNQUOTE.

Joe Cronin (en route to his new Red Cross job at Pearl Harbor): "There is a lot of difference in the physical condition of the average ball player of today when he reports for spring workouts as compared to the shape in which the average player reported, say, 10 to 15 years ago. Very few players let themselves get far out of condition now."

Bivins Blasts Charles Hopes

Cincinnati Fighter Floored Four Times.

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ezzard Charles probably will be more careful about choosing gymnasiums when he trains for his next fight.

The Cincinnati light heavyweight, who absorbed a right smart licking at the hands of Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins in a 10-rounder at the Arena last night, prepared for the scrap at the Bivins conditioning emporium and no doubt regrets it today.

Bivins was peeved because his fellow Ohioan moved in on his old stamping ground and that was unfortunate for Charles.

The Cleveland clouter was all business as he earned a Feb. 23 date with Anton Christoforidis in the finals of matchmaker Larry Atkins' tournament designed to crown a "duration champ."

Previous to the Bivins struggle, Charles had been knocked down only once in 37 fights. He was floored four times last night, thrice for a count of nine.

Official receipts of $32,146.50 represented a paid attendance of 10,355. Charles weighed 165 and Bivins 174.

Lightweight Joe Pirrone of Cleveland scored 10 knockdowns and an eight-round decision over Joey Archibald of Providence, R. I., twice holder of the featherweight title.

Bobby Richardson, 150, Cleveland, knocked out Jimmy Willis, 152, of Philadelphia, at 25 seconds of the second round of their scheduled eight-round

In other preliminaries, Johnny Lawer, 162, Cleveland, decisioned Curley Denton, 156, Cincinnati, in six rounds, and Bobby McQuillan, 135, Buffalo, N. Y., won a six-round decision over Abie Kaufman, 139, Philadelphia.

Brown Denies Making Charge

Says He's No Expert on Southern Football.

SHARON, Pa. —(UP)— Paul E. Brown, head coach of the Ohio State University football team, last night denied making statements which charged southern grid teams did not play schedules on a par with Big Ten elevens.

The statements had been attributed to him by a national sports columnist.

Speaking in a radio interview over Station WPIC here, Brown said: "I never made any such statements anywhere. I don't believe that southern teams play weak schedules. I haven't followed southern football very closely and right now couldn't tell you what teams Tennessee, Alabama or Tulane played. Certainly I do not know enough about them to pass on the quality of their schedules," he said.

"I don't know who started the story that I had criticised schedules of southern teams. But I am positive that I never publicly or privately have done so," he asserted.

OLD LOG CABIN SAVED

CANON CITY Colo — (UP) — The oldest building in the historic mining town of Canon City—a log cabin built in 1860—was saved from fire recently by the quick action of townspeople. The cabin was built 16 years before Colorado was admitted to the Union. The first white child in Canon City was born in the structure and Colorado's first chief executive, Governor Gilpin, was once entertained there.

The first time the U. S. Marines raised Old Glory on a foreign fortress was in 1805 when they vanquished the pirates of Tripoli.

UNEVEN PRICES DOMINATE LIST ON STOCK MART

Moderate Expansion Found In Retail Spending, But Let-Down Continues.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Slightly uneven prices continued to dominate today's early stock market proceedings.

Up fractionally at a fairly lively opening were N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Youngstown Sheet, Oliver Farm, General Foods and Pennsylvania. Small declines were posted for Johns-Manville, Phelps Dodge, Woolworth, Goodyear, American Smelting and Du Pont.

Followers of merchandising issues noted the Dun & Bradstreet survey which found that, while retail spending expanded moderately this week, activity for the country as a whole was somewhat below that of the corresponding period last year.

Confirmation of the let-down was given by the Federal Reserve board which estimated department store sales on a nation-wide basis, during the week ended Jan. 2, were up 5 per cent over the previous year while in the week before the year-to-year increase was 10 per cent.

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

REDS SMASH NAZI WALL OF RESISTANCE

Advance To Within 65 Miles of 'Key To Caucasus' In Fast Sweep.

forces farther north supported the Don offensive by covering Lieut. Gen. Constantin Rokossovsky's right flank, occupying numerous towns between the Don and the railroad running west from Stalingrad.

Soviet bombers roared low overhead to blast a path for Red army tanks. An attempt by the hard-pressed Germans to form a new defense line along the Don had been smashed. The Russians also moved up in the middle reaches of the Caucasus.

For the first time in a week Soviet aviation was reported playing a prominent part in dislodging and throwing the enemy back. Forty more inhabited points in the Caucasus were said to have fallen before tank-led Russian infantrymen.

The Germans were reported to be offering "stubborn resistance" in one sector but to be unable to check the Russians' stead advance.

(The British radio, in a broadcast recorded in New York by CBS, said the Germans had announced the evacuation of the civilian population of Rzhev, a stronghold on the upper Volga 130 miles northwest of Moscow, as a "precautionary measure.")

The Soviet early communique reported the Germans, retreating swiftly in the north Caucasus, had yielded Stepnoye, 38 miles north of Mozdok, and Sovietskaya, which is only 30 miles east of Georgievsk and 50 miles east of Pyatigorsk.

The retreating Axis troops burned and blasted villages in their wake and left land mines in the roads. The Russians estimated more than 2,000 mines had been dug up by their sappers in the last three days.

(The German radio, after almost a week of Russian successes which opened with the capture of Mozdok and Nalchik, admitted German reverses in the Caucasus last night for the first time.

(In the style usually reserved for news of great importance, it said in a broadcast heard in New York:

("German troops in the eastern Caucasus completed, according to schedule, the shortening of front lines by withdrawing advanced strongholds, it became known in Berlin Thursday night. Soviet attacks on rear guards were frustrated despite the massed employment of tanks.")

The many-fold advance on Rostov, in and below the Don valley, had the most forward Red army columns 75 miles from Rostov at Bolshaya Orlovka, on the Sal river about 32 miles southeast of where the Sal flows into the Don.

The newest gains indicated clearly that surrounded German garrisons were being mopped up back of the Russian forward positions in the centered wedge aimed at Rostov, while the flanking attempts south of Millerovo and southwest of Kotelnikovski were being pushed.

All these efforts were aimed ultimately at Rostov, the gateway to the Caucasus, but the primary objective of both the columns driving south of Millerovo and of the right side of the central wedge was Likhaya, which is at the junction of the Rostov-Moscow railway with the railroad from Likhaya to Stalingrad.

The Russians said that their troops driving south of Stalingrad into the Kalmyck steppe had pushed past Elista and that less than 140 miles of the flat desert-like country now separates them from the Russian advance guard in the north Caucasus.

Several points, not identified, were reported occupied despite resistance of fresh German reinforcements, including elite troops.

The Germans were said to be still attempting to fly supplies in to their forces trapped before Stalingrad and transport planes were being downed daily, the Russians said.

Nazis Claim Success In Caucasus Defense

BERLIN — (From German Broadcasts) — (AP) — German troops engaged in "heavy but successful defensive fighting" against the Russians yesterday in the Caucasus, on the Don and northwest of Stalingrad, the high command reported today.

In "fierce" aerial engagements over the central and northern fronts, 32 Soviet planes were shot down without the loss of a single German craft, the report said.

Ruhr Valley Blasted In New Night Attack

LONDON — (INS) — Germany's industrial Ruhr valley was blasted during the night by Royal Air Force bombers, the air ministry announced today.

All of the British craft returned safely to their base.

The attack was the third against the Reich of the new year. The two previous assaults over Germany during 1943 also were centered on objectives in the rich coal and iron area of the Ruhr.

The air ministry again failed to name specific localities attacked, stating, as on the two previous occasions, that the RAF "attacked targets in the Ruhr."

ership admission and whether or not a person can be charged with stealing an illegal object are confronting officials.

However, in the theft of the machines from the Nail establishments, it was pointed out that a burglary charge could be filed, since the place was broken into.

Several days ago police were told that a slot machine had been burglarized in a North Main street bar and investigators were advised, off the record, that several others had been rifled at a North Diamond street saloon.

Three "slots" recently were seized by police in a North Main street cigar store, the subsequent court proceedings bringing a challenge from Municipal Judge G. E. Klabfleisch that existing gambling laws be enforced or erased from the city's legislative tomes.

CAIRO — (AP) — On windswept desert air fields strewn with the wreckage of Axis planes, 49 additional American air force members received the Distinguished Flying Cross today from Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of United States air forces in the Middle East.

Lieut. Frederic E. Whitker of Bowling Green, O., got a special citation for bringing home a badly damaged medium bomber from a raid in October after he was wounded in the leg.

Enemy anti-aircraft fire hit Whitker and killed his bombardier. His plane burst into flames as he made a forced landing, but he helped extinguish the blaze. Whitker also received the Purple Heart for his wound.

Beaverbrook Raps Report He Gave Emeralds to Mrs. Hopkins.

LONDON — (INS) — Lord Beaverbrook, British lend-lease authority, was on record today with a denial that he had made valuable Christmas gifts to Mrs. Harry Hopkins, wife of the American chief of the lend-lease program. Washington reports had said that Lord Beaverbrook had sent Mrs. Hopkins a gift of emeralds, valued at $500,-000.

"The report is all nonsense," said Lord Beaverbrook. "It is a fabrication from beginning to end. But the Germans will like it."

loaded with her entire load of troops in a night bombing attack.

The second transport, the communique declared, was disabled by a direct hit, set afire and later sunk. The third vessel, reported damaged, was heavily hit by a 500-pound bomb.

Advices from New Guinea said the convoy had been spotted by a reconnoitering Liberator bomber on the morning of Jan. 6 about 30 miles off New Britain, where the Japanese recently have been reported concentrating a great mass of shipping.

In addition to 18 Japanese fighter planes definitely reported shot down, five were listed as probably destroyed and four as damaged. Allied losses were said to be relatively small.

The final chapter of the battle still was being written today in the Huon gulf off Lae, the Japanese base on the New Guinea coast which presumably was the goal of the convoy.

Some 160 miles to the south, meanwhile, Allied troops were reported to have completed their envelopment of the remnants of the enemy's Papuan army on Sanananda Point.

The Allied communique said that the entrenched enemy force was facing "certain destruction" and that with its elimination the Papuan peninsula would be completely cleared of Japanese troops.

The primary object of the Papuan campaign, annihilation of Lieut. Gen. Tomatore Horii's army which only last September drove to within 32 miles of Port Moresby, now can be considered accomplished, the bulletin declared. General Horii himself was reported slain on Dec. 21.

Enemy aircraft definitely known to have been destroyed since the beginning of the Papuan campaign were listed by Allied headquarters as 333. Eighty-one were reported probably destroyed and 117 damaged—a total of 531.

Akyab Raided Again By RAF Bombers

NEW DELHI—(INS)—Royal Air Force heavy bombers carried out a strong assault against the Jap-held Burmese port of Akyab on the Bay of Bengal during the night, British India headquarters announced today.

"A number of heavy bombs were dropped with good results," the communique said.

Several fires were left blazing at Akyab and among other objectives in the vicinity.

During the day yesterday British planes sank four Jap supply sampans south of Akyab. Oil installations near Chauk were attacked and Rathedaung, 30 miles north of Akyab, also were bombed.

NEW YORK —(INS)— There was "some possibility" today that the Jack Dempsey divorce case, now headed for a showdown in the New York courts, might be settled through an amicable Reno decree.

Attorney Arthur F. Driscoll admitted the possibility of a compromise but indicated that Dempsey was determined to gain custody of their two children, Joan, eight, and Barbara, six. Dempsey's suit for an "absolute" divorce will be contested "vigorously" according to Arnold Koch, representing Mrs. Dempsey.

form of graduated adjustments, the workers in the lower brackets receiving a greater percentage of increase than those in the higher pay ranges, or whether a blanket boost will be voted.

There appeared to be some support of a plan to abolish the rating of "third-class" fireman or patrolmen, in order to raise that pay level from $120 a month to the second-year level of $135 or even closer to the $160 mark of patrolmen and firemen who have completed three years of service.

Discussion by council members has indicated a figure of around 12½ per cent upward for all workers.

Petitions have been filed with council from all departments asking increases commensurate with the higher living costs, hourly wage workers declaring for a boost which will approach the state-fixed prevailing wage minimum of 82½ cents an hour for common labor.

Council, in special session Tuesday night, will act on a 1943 appropriations ordinance.

tion of the foods desired. Amounts are determined by the relief office unless the agencies stipulate a smaller amount than that which would be certified. Deliveries are made around the first of each month.

Schools sharing in the program now include: Newman street, Shiloh, Lexington, Bellville, Ontario, Butler, Shelby and Mansfield senior high school which shares its allotment with Junior High, Johnny Appleseed, West Fifth and West First street schools. Bushnell and Union schools may be certified under the plan soon, Finney said.

This month's order distributed to the nine schools and two institutions included: 500 pounds prunes, 200 pounds dried milk, 23 cases pork and beans, 100 pounds graham flour, 200 pounds rolled oats, 400 pounds corn meal, 900 pounds white flour, 400 pounds dried beans, 300 pounds cream cheese, 2,016 cans evaporated milk and 2,880 pounds apples.

Surplus commodities are no longer available for relief clients, Finney pointed out, since the stamp system of purchasing groceries is employed.

Books of coupons, which may be spent in grocery stores like money, are issued to clients. The books contain red stamps, good for any product, and blue stamps, good for a special list of foods which this month includes: corn meal, wheat flour, fresh apples, fresh pears, fresh grapefruit, dry beans, hominy corn grits and fresh vegetables with tomatoes, potatoes, sweet potatoes, dried onions, cucumbers, egg plant and spinach specified. Melons, rhubarb, mangoes and all processed vegetables that are pickled, frozen, dried or canned were listed as excluded.

Length of Assembly Session Hinges on Printer Shortage

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The war-time manpower shortage in Columbus printing plants may have a decided bearing on the length of time the current 95th Ohio general assembly remains in session, it developed today.

Rep. Paul Ballard (R., Jackson), chairman of the house finance committee, revealed that he "practically had to beg" for assurance that the partial appropriations bill, providing more than $79,000,000 for the operation of state departments until the budget bill is passed, would be returned from the printers in time for committee hearing on the matter next Monday at 10 a. m.

The house hopes to pass the partial measure following the joint session Monday night at which the governor will combine his inaugural address with his constitutionally-required message on the condition of the state.

However, the house cannot vote on the bill unless the committee reports it out—and the committee can hardly report it out if it does not receive it from the printers in time to study it in committee hearing. Hence it can be seen that printing difficulties easily could upset the schedule of both houses.

The word has been passed around to the solons to go easy on the introduction of bills this session so that the important ones can be printed and considered on schedule. If this word is heeded and unimportant bills are kept from the hopper, the total number of bills may be reduced drastically, which would result in a short session.

However, if the entirely unofficial request goes unheeded and the usual number of unimportant bills are thrown in the hopper, the jam at the printing firms may reach such proportions that all measures will be delayed.

The proposal to change Ohio back to "slow time" will be mentioned in Governor Bricker's address to the legislature, his executive secretary, Donald C. Power, said. But whether the governor will suggest that Ohio clocks be set back an hour or left as they are has yet to be learned.

If Michigan's Gov. Harry Kelley decides to go back to "slow time" by recommending a change which would place the state in the Central Time zone, Ohio will follow suit, the governor's office indicated.

But it was felt that Ohio should not change unless Michigan does also, since this move would isolate Michigan from the rest of the Eastern Time belt.

Navy Recruiter Interviews Applicants For 'Seabees.'

In the first four hours of his visit to the naval recruiting substation in Mansfield today Chief Petty Officer Frank B. Cleveland, of the Chicago U. S. Navy Recruiting station, interviewed 12 men desiring information concerning the "Seabees," construction battalion of the navy.

Any of the men who attended the interview session today must go to Cleveland for confirmation of their possible rating and also for induction, Officer Cleveland stated.

Every Monday Ensign Frank Honeycutt will be in Cleveland at the old postoffice building to see any applicants for the "Seabees."

Men, whose ages ranged from 38 to 50, interested in joining this new construction battalion had been asked earlier this week to report today from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the navy substation in the postoffice bringing with them three letters of recommendation as to the type of work for which they are qualified. There is still a place for officer material, Officer Cleveland said.

FDR HOPES FOR VICTORY IN '44

Congress Ponders Meaning of President's Address, Notes Conciliatory Tone.

sage noted further today what many members called the "conciliatory" tone of the speech and pondered its significance.

Many Republicans joined the Democrats in predicting the restrained, non-belligerent wording on domestic questions would go far toward strengthening prospects for unity in the newly-sworn legislature. One Republican asked the question whether the president had not cast his hat in the ring for a fourth term.

While the comment on the conciliatory nature of the address did not content that the chief executive was heeding last November's election results, some informed legislators expressed the belief privately that Mr. Roosevelt was attaching greater weight to the counsel of conservative members of his party.

This, they said, was evidenced by the manner in which he advocated a broader social security system for all Americans. While saying he dissented from suggestions that this was no time to speak of a "better America after the war," the president omitted any specific program or time for its enactment in declaring that this great government "can and must" provide assurance for its citizens against all "major economic hazards x x x from the cradle to the grave."

Some of the president's more conservative advisers are known to have urged him against seeking now, in the midst of war, action on a new, all-inclusive social security structure.

It was a new Republican congressman from Washington state —Rep. Holmes—who saw political ghosts hovering over the address. He said it "might possibly be construed as a good campaign speech for the 1944 presidential election," and added:

"The question might be asked 'did President Roosevelt throw his hat into the ring on Jan. 7, 1943?'"

Rep. Eaton (R., N. J.), ranking minority member on the foreign affairs committee, said he thought the speech was "intended as an olive branch to congress in the interest of harmony," while Senator Taft (R., Ohio) remarked:

"It seemed to me a conciliatory speech that ought to add to unity and create no dissension. He didn't propose any measures that would bring about controversy or dissention. On social security he only discussed general principles which probably everyone could approve. Unemployment, the same."

Senator Wheeler, (D., Mont.) thought it a "very clever speech" in that it "dealt with generalities with which every right-thinking person could agree."

Senator Aiken (R., Vt.) appraised it as a speech that would fail to "stir up controversy—and that's unusual coming from that source."

Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.), a leading advocate of social security measures, announced he would offer soon two proposals on post-war employment and general social security "to provide the basis for public discussion and congressional action on these main issues."

The senate was in recess today until Monday, but Republicans planned a party conference to re-elect Senator McNary of Oregon as leader. Senator Barkley of Kentucky was renamed the majority leader at a Democratic conference yesterday.

The house arranged a meeting today, but only to listen to a few speeches and go through the formality of ratifying six Democratic vacancies on the important ways and means committee failed in party conference yesterday.

At a conference of party leaders from both sides of the aisle the Democrats gave the increased Republican minority additional representation on committees.

SET UP $14,000 MORE IN COUNTY FUND FOR 1943

Crawford Commissioners Put Approval on Measure To Provide $413,837.

BUCYRUS — Appropriations totaling $413,837 for general operation and bond retirement in Crawford county in 1943 have been approved by the county commissioners. Appropriations total approximately $14,000 more than those made for the year just ended.

Largely responsible for the increase is the $15,000 allowed for real estate appraisal this year which are made every six years. Also an added appropriation this year is $3,550 for the periodical tuberculin testing of cattle. Heavy damages to sheep flocks during the past year boosted the dog and kennel appropriation from $5150 to $7,070 which will be met by increased dog license prices.

Total appropriations in the general fund this year are $223,567 as compared with $211, 417 in 1942. Allowed for the road and bridge fund is $172,300 and for bond retirement, $10,900. Included in the general fund appropriations are: commissioners salaries $7,550; office expenses $3,400; court house and jail, $11,060; county home, $15,518; charity, $6,344; soldiers' burial, $1,530; justice court, $200; agriculture, $3,500 plus $3,550 for cattle testing and $23,500 miscellaneous expenses. Total, $72,652.

Auditor, $30,160; board of elections, $10,980; treasurer, $11,240; recorder, $4,900; prosecuting attorney $4,740, court of appeals, $330; common pleas court, $7,930; probate court, $7,180, juvenile judge, $12,315; clerk of courts, $7,765; coroner, $400; sheriff, $16,195; children's home, $15,000; county engineers, $9,370; ditches, $5,360 and soldiers' relief, $7,050.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1943.

Any restriction seems "unreasonable" to those who have never been subjected to discipline.

Careful study of observations and forecasts from all reliable sources leads to the conclusion that it's perfectly safe to say: "Nobody knows what's going to happen this year."

Here's a thought worth preserving. When Dr. George Washington Carver made a scientific discovery he disclaimed credit. He merely explained: "The things already are there; God, through my hands, brings them to light."

Confident Tone Marks Message

A NOTE of implicit confidence in ultimate victory for the United Nations was plainly discernible in President Roosevelt's message to the new 78th congress, on "the state of the union."

Both in text of the message and voice in which it was spoken, the president gave an impression of assurance that there is no longer any doubt of the final outcome—that the military strength of the United Nations is steadily growing while that of the Axis powers is as surely waning.

No promise of quick victory was given. "The coming year will be filled with violent conflict," he said, "yet with high promise of better things."

Opportunity was found, early in the address, to pay glowing tributes to the gallant fight being made by Russia, China and the French in North Africa, with assurance of increasing aid from the United States in war equipment and supplies.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," said the president, "but I do believe that this year of 1943 will give to the United Nations a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin, Rome and Tokyo."

Extent to which war materials were produced last year, which served only to make a start toward the greater accomplishments that may be expected from now on, were mentioned in substantiation of the statement: "The arsenal of democracy is making good."

Warning was given that total war cannot be fought in a comfortable way and that 1943 will not be an easy year on the home front. "We shall feel in many ways in our daily lives the sharp pinch of total war," the president said.

A lesson learned from the disastrous aftermath of the first World war may be of value after this war—if present determination can be transformed into effective action. "It is clear to us, said President Roosevelt, "that if Germany, Italy and Japan—or any one of them—remain armed at the end of this war, or are permitted to rearm, they will again, and inevitably, embark on an ambitious career of world conquest. They must be disarmed and kept disarmed."

Expansion of social security gained mention in connection with reference to postwar aspirations for America and "the rest of the world."

"The men in our armed forces want a lasting peace, and, equally, they want permanent employment for themselves when they are mustered out at the end of the war . . . they do not want a postwar America which suffers from undernourishment or slums—or the dole."

Whatever time and thought may be given to peace aims—and there will be much of this in and out of congress throughout the year—it should at no time be lost sight of that WINNING THE WAR is the immediate objective toward which all strength had best be directed.

The least of partisan politics and the most of true Americanism that is shown by the present congress and by the national administration, until the war has been won, the better it will be for the people of the United States and for the cause of the United Nations.

Slow-Downs In War Production

PRODUCTION of war materials seems to be doing well when compared with past records, but the picture may be different when present needs and possibilities are considered. Most of the workmen, no doubt, are patriotic and would like to do more. But there are too many unnecessary absences, and there is too much indifference, or even opposition, about speeding up. Some accusations are made against labor leaders on this score. Eddie Rickenbacker says frankly:

> "I have come to the conclusion that if they brought the combat troops back here and put them in the factories, and had the factory workers replace them in the field, we could double production in 30 days' time."

This should start a lot of people to thinking. Nearly everybody who is not in the trenches or on the ships or in the air could probably do more than he is doing. When civilians go "all out," as the fighting men do, the end will be brought much nearer.

An Analyst Who Accomplished Much

GUSTAVUS MYERS is dead. Few will recognize the name, few read his books. Those who did have been in a position to influence others, and much of our common thinking, including some that has passed into law, is due to Gustavus Myers.

His first book, "A History of American Fortunes," was finished in 1900. It took ten years for it to find a publisher. It analyzed the making of famous fortunes like the Astor, Gould, Vanderbilt and many others, pointing out the underhanded means and often downright fraud that went into the making of many of them. The legislation that has put some curb to the unbridled methods of the old-time captains of industry is largely due to Gustavus Myers.

On a local scale he accomplished much good by his "History of Public Franchises in New York City," and "History of Tammany Hall," both of which revealed gaps in our social system that could be closed by improved legislation. His last book, "History of Bigotry in the United States," Mr. Myers will never see in print. He worked at it for 17 years, and it is to appear in April.

Those who require personal fame as a condition for doing good will not get much inspiration in the career of Gustavus Myers. But he may rank in history much higher than many a more showy figure.

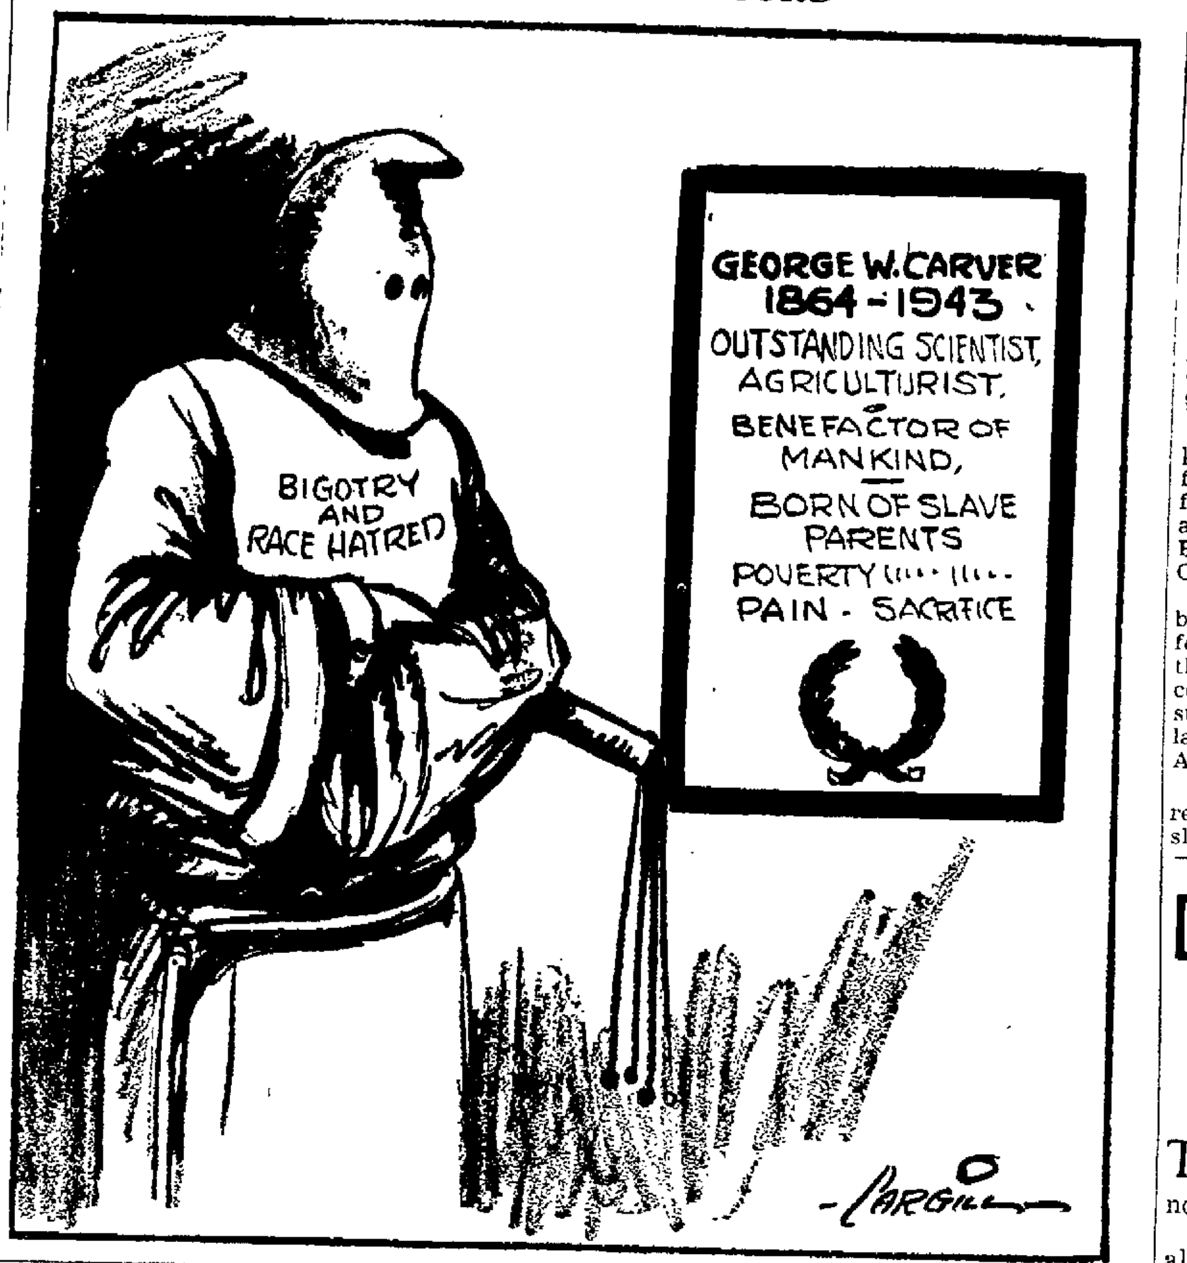
It is a big-hearted Kansan who offers to adopt, for the duration, a couple of self-supporting, non-coffee drinking young people of either sex, between the ages of 15 and 21.

It has even been suggested that if we ever get back to plenty of gasoline, oil and coal, this will be a regular fuel's paradise.

Among this year's "comebacks" don't overlook the pedestrian.

This is the year for toughness, toil and triumph.

CONSIDER THE RECORD



Winter Fighting Weakens Nazis

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—If this winter follows anything like the pattern in Russia that last winter did, we may expect Russian successes to continue as long as bitter cold weather lasts. By the same token, with the advent of spring, the tide may turn and we may see further Nazi advances.

No one anywhere has anything but praise for the Soviet forces. Their fighting has been magnificent, their strategy admirable. The fact remains that they lost a great deal more last summer than they had gained last winter, measured in territory.

For example take a look at the map, seeing approximately where the battle lines are now. Then note the position, with references to the battle lines, of Sevastopol. It will be seen that the Germans could be driven a long way back without surrendering the gains they made last summer.

THIS is the best answer to the question so frequently asked: whether the Russians will content themselves with driving the Germans back across their frontier, or will they pursue the Germans to Berlin. From the present outlook the Nazis will be on Russian soil until the German collapse comes.

It also seems probable, just as in 1918, that the collapse will come without the German army being driven back into Germany on ANY front. It will not be necessary for the Soviet forces to retake Sevastopol to win the war.

Sevastopol is mentioned only because it is an obvious landmark illustrating that the Germans are still holding, and will continue to hold unless the Soviet successes are much more spectacular than any so far this winter, much of their gain made last summer. And it must be remembered that this last summer's Nazi gain was made after what had been assumed to be a perfectly disastrous campaign for the Germans in the winter of 1941-42.

To use a football illustration, the Soviet team lost sixty yards every summer, and gains back 15 yards every winter. It leaves Hitler the opportunity to boast to his people about the permanent gains, increasing by the end of each year.

This is not actually very satisfactory from the Nazi standpoint, of course, because if the German losses on the Russian front are only a quarter of those estimated Germany is taking a beating she cannot endure for many of these winter-summer cycles.

ACTUALLY, every bit of information, with due allowance for the lack of outside checking possible on this highly screened and censored front, is that Russia is cutting out the heart of the German war power in men, food and supplies.

If, on top of this, the Germans can be driven completely out of Africa before they get a chance to start their spring drive against the Russians, it may well be that the effect on the German morale will approach closely the point necessary to bring about a collapse.

It may be noted here that the Germans were obliged to risk warships to stop the Murmansk convoys a few weeks back. The answer is obvious. They could no longer afford to put the air power in Norway and northern Finland necessary to play sufficient havoc with the supply ships pursuing the northern route to Russia.

And with the long winter nights they will need more and more fighters to resist the R. A. F. and U. S. bombing raids on Germany itself!

So maybe they will lack sufficient air power for a spring offensive against Russia this time.

A Little Space Apart

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

NEWSPAPER COLUMNS are pretty grim these days.

Writing them is even grimmer.

Life looks like the faded trash in the circus ring after the show has folded.

Everyone is shuffling around but the eagerness has gone from their eyes.

They look as if they were under a perpetual dim-out. Pretty soon you'll realize that you look like that too.

So I've decided to do something about it.

Don't know yet how I'm going to cram it into a busy day. But somewhere in the 24 hours I'm going to make a new place in my program—

A little space apart, even if it's only 15 minutes.

And in that time I'm going to do something to and with myself.

I'M GOING TO RID MYSELF OF THAT DIM-OUT LOOK.

"What'll it be?

Don't know yet.

But it won't be war work.

It won't be something useful.

Except in a unique sense.

BUT IT WILL BE SOMETHING THAT WILL SWING ME RIGHT BACK INTO BALANCE.

I used to be gay.

I laughed and played with the pup.

I looked under the rocks for those tiny golden backed ferns

And scampering bugs.

I'm going to be gay again in that 15 minutes.

I used to be reckless.

Now and then I'd dwadle on the job—

Actually be lazy.

I really didn't believe in laziness.

I have one of those consciences that make you feel

You must be hustling every minute.

I couldn't see any use in laziness.

But I can see the use of it now.

I can see the use of leisure now.

I'm going to be lazy again.

I'm going to get rid of the tension

That has held me like handcuffs.

I'm going to day dream . . .

Remember the fun I had as a kid.

And if I don't do anything else

I'm going to find beauty in that little space apart.

Going to brood over some lovely picture—

Fill my eyes with its delight.

Or read a poem.

Dig out my old paint box.

Make a silly party dress for the little kid down the alley

Who has never had one.

But, most of all, I'm going to "feed my soul."

I'm going to read the 23rd Psalm again

And let my troubled, tangled mind grow still—

So still—

Until I hear His voice

Whispering through the dark.

What lovely words they were—

The Lord is my shepherd,

I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:

He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul:

Yes, that's what I need.

That's what we all need for our battered, busy, noisy, frightened lives,

A little space apart where we can grow still.

Where we can be young and eager and fresh again . . .

Where we can be restored.

I am going to try to find that place

And take you with me, friend.

White Book Revelations!

The White Book, telling the facts of American diplomacy from 1931 to our entrance into the war, is a document with which this people should be familiar. As one after another American has waked to a realization that we are at war all over the world, many have been impelled to ask whether the conflict could not have been averted.

Reading the White Book produces only one answer. The struggle was inevitable. The reports of our diplomatic representatives make that clear. From Germany, Italy and Japan before the present Axis was formed, it was obvious that the leaders of those nations were bent on conquest.

It is also clear that both the Hoover and the Roosevelt administrations exerted their power and influence to keep the peace of the world. But nothing availed.

It is only just to ourselves, our children and to generations unborn that the people of today should strive to comprehend all that is offered in this vital volume.—Boston Globe.

Fear Unites People of Germany As War Losses Forbode Defeat

ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER—The psychology of fear is sweeping Germany, and the Nazi warlords are using it to keep the German people united in the Axis war effort.

There is little doubt that the Axis' military setbacks have damaged the prestige of the Nazi party and aided in the deterioration of civilian morale. But Paul Joseph Goebbels, preaching "conquer or perish" has successfully propagandized fear of the day of reckoning.

The German people fear the swelling Allied military power. They fear coming events on the battlefields. They fear that the day of vengeance for the Russians, Poles, Czechs and other Nazi victims is coming. But most of all they fear the Gestapo.

Observers reaching the frontier believe that Adolf Hitler's gift of fear to the Germans has united them for the country but they are certain that eventually it will result in swift and complete collapse on the home front when the Axis armies are beaten decisively.

There are undercurrents of unrest apparent already. Goebbels' slogan, "Wheels roll for victory," has been distorted into a popular cynicism, "Heads roll for victory."

There is no sign of a real military or popular uprising against Hitler yet, but observers agree that Munich, the birthplace of Naziism, is the center of outspoken grumbling and complaining.

It is questionable whether this is a serious threat or revolt or merely a Nazi-approved "blowing off steam," giving an illusion of freedom and providing an outlet for futile opposition that the Gestapo could easily quench.

In Munich Hitler is criticized openly without respect for the swarming Gestapo, and "the dirty Prussians" are blamed even for the deterioration of the famous Munich beer. Some travelers report the existence of several embryonic peace movements there, but more reliable sources agree the unrest is mainly harmless grumbling.

GERMANY'S intellectual life has reached a new low level. Almost no books are printed because of the paper shortage. Allocation of paper supplies to the churches has been suspended and prayerbooks are unobtainable. The Swedish Protestant church offered to provide prayerbooks for Germany, but the government refused the offer.

Fear and unrest are reflected in widely separated sections. Discontent is reported in Austria, where the Catholic church is unfriendly to the Nazi party and the strong Socialist workers' movements never have been completely crushed.

Fear has penetrated even to the army ranks. It is reflected by repeated official appeals to the German people to "write cheerful letters to the troops and avoid any depressing remarks."

Letters found in possession of Germans taken prisoner on the fighting fronts reflect the home-front worries of the soldiers. A Rumanian in Germany, writing a friend on the Russian front, said:

"The German women are losing control of themselves. They are very depressed. Karl, home on leave, divorced his wife because she was with child by a war prisoner."

The Nazis increasingly refuse women permission to travel outside Germany because, officially, "they talk too much."

Travelers described Berlin as a city where mostly women and foreigners are seen on the streets. There are few soldiers. Italians predominate, but there also are French, Poles, Rumanians and Czechs.

Disaster Seems Near For Nazis In Russia

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE POSITION of the Germans in the Caucasus rapidly is becoming desperate as the Russians close in from the north and east and are now threatening from the west.

The Russians are reported to be preparing, or have already started, an offensive on the Black sea coast of the Caucasus. The report comes from neutral sources in Stockholm, while the Berlin radio, heard in London, said that fighting already had begun in the Novorossisk-Tuapse region of the coast.

The Germans may not be able to extricate themselves from the Red army trap and thus face the possibility of disaster.

A Russian drive on the Black sea coast would be a direct threat to the German line of retreat.

Tacticians have pointed out that the army which is withdrawing from the oil field region could escape across the narrow Kerch strait into the Crimea, where it probably could hold, bolstered by the German forces already there.

Stockholm reports of the new offensive say it is a combined land, air and naval operation. The use of the navy suggests that the Russians intend to block the strait, which connects the Sea of Azov with the Black sea, and destroy any German force which attempts to escape.

By a combination of air and sea-power, the Russians should be able to do it. The Black sea fleet is strong and it is intact. Since the fall of Sevastopol it has been able to base at ports on the Caucasus coast.

This new Russian threat is combined with an even more imminent one to the key city of Rostov at the mouth of the Don. Russian forces advancing southward from the south bend of the Don have reached Bolshayaorlovka, only 75 miles north of the city.

The speed of Gen. N. F. Vatutin's southward advance may determine the fate of the German army in the north Caucasus. If he can storm Rostov before the Germans can withdraw to that city along the railroad from the oil fields, they would be cut off and in a hopeless position, without any supply line except by air.

WASHINGTON — The Capital in Wartime:

Shades of the Pony Express! The Postoffice Department has got itself a marching song. As nearly as your correspondent's unmusical ear could make out, it isn't bad either. Music and lyrics were written by a couple of fellows who should know for they have both served the postoffice for years.

Some of the couplets go: "I carry the mail for Uncle Sam, I take it through with speed and wham"; and "I bring your mail from far and near, I'm next of kin to Paul Revere." The boys got in a dig at a couple of old traditional mail service gags, with the lines: "I get it there right on the minute, and never peek to see what's in it." My favorite is the plaint on the mailman's long hours and his absence of time for the little joys of life. It goes: "I carry on from dawn 'til dark, and don't have time to stop and spark."

GONE from the slip on the Potomac near Fourteenth and Main avenue is the 75-room "floating hotel," Amphitrite, which has been getting notices in the dailies here for months. Ever since it came lumbering up the coast from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to do its bit in relieving the Washington housing situation, it has had troubles galore.

To get it remodeled and refurnished, its owners had to battle priorities. To get it moored, they had to scrap over rental rights. There were ruckuses with public utilities, local officials and WPB. But that's all over now. The army has taken over.

Shining like a millionaire's yacht, the motorless "waterway hostel" was towed silently away the other night. Destination — a military secret.

THE Boston and St. John's night club fire tragedies have had real repercussions in Washington. Nearly all of the local department stores have hidden away their ash-trays and posted "No Smoking" signs.

The city fathers dug down in a dusty bin and unearthed an old ordinance strengthening the District's fire protection laws and passed it pronto.

Many of the night clubs, including that free-for-all-servicemen, the "Stage Door Canteen," are holding frequent fire drills. The "Stage Door Canteen," in the old Belasco theater, emptied its packed interior the other night in one minute and ten seconds without even a Marine stepping on an army man's toe.

AFTER fumbling the ball and not even lifting a finger in eight months against defiant motorists burning up millions of gallons of gas at race tracks, ball parks and other amusement places, the OPA now penalizes all autoists in 17 states by making 'em all subject to police grilling if they dare appear on a highway.

An "A" card holder who has been getting along on maybe ten gallons a month, using his car only a couple of times a week, is now ordered off the road just as if he, too, had been a gas hog all the time.

Mr. Henderson indorses just what I said yesterday. He admits that the chief wastes have stemmed from the "B" and "C" card boys who have treated their cards as special oil-burning permits in too many cases.

Now, patriotic car owners would rather lay up their buggies for the duration than deny a pint of gas to our fighting men. But it burns them up to see Washington ruling at this late date that cars at race tracks, etc., shall be held evidence of waste.

A Farmer's Diary

January Thaw

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE SNOW grew soft and melted in a strong south wind. Streams, silent for more than three long wintry weeks, became alive again. Thunder swept along our valley and lightning briefly lit the dark, misty landscape. Heavy showers came suddenly and swept by as quickly.

Deep snow, up on the wooded slopes, is gone now. They look as drab as late October. The cleanly-plowed roadside ditches are filled with yellow sand, again.

The life that had gone deep into the soil for rest and protection from the cold has been rudely awakened. Down in the creek bed, below leaves in soft mud, I saw a movement. Leaves stirred slowly beneath the water, parted, and from the rift emerged the broad blinking face of a frog. It seemed unnecessary that he come up for air. For a half hour he remained motionless and sleepy, then suddenly as if something poked his creamy undercoat, he swam toward the surface and rested beneath a green hollyhock leaf.

When the water had covered for some time a deep crevice in the rocky wall, I saw what appeared to be a sleek, shiny pointed stick come out. It was a water snake, two feet long. Stiffly he wriggled to the surface and climbed with difficulty upon a small pole of seasoned sassafras—lying poised, with his head out of water.

Our flock of Leghorn hens were out before daybreak. I watched them cock their heads, like robins in the spring, listen for a fraction of a second, then pounce upon the upward moving worm and gulp it down . . . actually I saw the proverbial "early bird" at work. Fishing worms, by the thousands, came hustling from their quiet underground cells, making criss-cross trails along every muddy path and lying drowned at the bottom of larger puddles.

Half way up the slope, a fat and flabby groundhog waddled out of his burrow, with stiff and labored movements. I stayed beside his entrance door and watched the poor dazed creature. Presently his trail led close to where I stood and he tripped across my feet and ran headlong into his dampened dwelling, after sniffing the air.

What pain and suffering this freakish weather must cause the quiet, timid sleepers of the soil! And when north winds blow and winter comes again, myriads of unsuspecting creatures will lie stranded and frozen upon the hardened surface.

QUIET CEREMONY READ FOR MANSFIELD COUPLE

Miss Marjorie L. Hale Married to Pfc. William A. Harmony Thursday Morning; Will Reside In Texas.

MISS MARJORIE LOUISE HALE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hale, 189 Euclid avenue, became the bride of Pfc. William A. Harmony, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Harmony, 539 Forrest avenue, in a quiet ceremony performed in the home of the bride's parents Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The single-ring service was read by Dr. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, before relatives of the couple, who was unattended.

The bride wore a two-piece tailored wool suit of Rico brown, with a white silk blouse and matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Hale, mother of the bride, wore a street-length black crepe dress, designed with a vestee-front of dusty rose crepe, black accessories and a shoulder corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Harmony's dress was of soldier-blue crepe, and she also wore black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served buffet style to 20 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Roberts of Ashland, were the only out-of-town guests in attendance.

The couple left early Thursday afternoon for Texas where Pfc. Harmony is stationed at Camp Swift, and where they will reside.

Mrs. Harmony was graduated from Mansfield high school, and has been employed at the Citizens National Bank and Trust company. She has been active in Zeta chapter, Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority. Pfc. Harmony also is a graduate of Mansfield high school and attended Ohio State university prior to entering the service.

Miss Jeannette Werner, Euclid avenue, was hostess to twelve close friends of the new Mrs. Harmony for the spinster dinner Wednesday evening at her home.

The long table at which the guests were seated was attractively centered with an arrangement of yellow and white pompons, and lighted with tapers in crystal holders. The honoree's place was marked with a corsage of yellow and white mums.

A feature of the evening was a toast to the bride-elect and group singing of a number composed by one of the guests, Miss Ethel Mae Bogan.

The evening was spent socially and the honoree was presented with many lovely gifts by the guests.

Guests at the dinner were: the Misses Gerry Fisher, Marjorie Scott, Frances Brown, Adeline Wilging, Lillian Art, Margie Schwein, Patricia Stuhldreher, Patty Oberlander, Mrs. Alan Dare, Miss Bogan and the guest of honor.

Wedding Service Held at Napoleon

Announcement is being made today of the marriage of Miss Elsie Franks, 566 Grant street, to Sherman Ferguson, 492 Louise avenue, which took place Nov. 30, in Napoleon, in the home of Rev. R. B. Leedy.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Leedy, who included "I Love You Truly" in her selections. The home was attractively decorated with baskets of mixed flowers.

The bride wore a teal blue suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses. After the ceremony, the couple left for a short wedding trip through the east.

The former Miss Franks is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Franks of West Salem. She attended Barberton high school, and is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Mr. Ferguson is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high and at present is stationed with the navy at Portsmouth, Va. He is the son of Mrs. Ray Ferguson. The new Mrs. Ferguson will reside at present at 566 Grant street.

Marilyn and Jane Hughes, in costume, sang a duet entitled "The Old Straw Hat." G. L. Rogers gave talking movies of the Belgian Congo, and a comedy.

Luncheon was served to 57 guests by the following committee. Mr. and Mrs. George Gribling, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. George Statler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lang, Mrs. Viola Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Heston and Mr. and Mrs. Hubbel Marlow.

Beta Gamma Club Hears Miss Beck

"The Problems and Status of the Negro" was the topic chosen by Miss Margaret Beck, a teacher at the Bowman street school, when she spoke and conducted an interesting discussion before members of the Beta Gamma sorority at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening.

The program for the month was announced by Miss Jean Shively, program chairman. It includes Oscar Fensch, Inter-Racial Relationship discussion; Rev. Grover F. Swoyer, and a social affair, which will be the last meeting of the month.

An announcement was made that the dinner for next week will be held in the dining room at the Evergreens. It will not be necessary to make reservations.
